WHERE ARE THE MICHIGAN CZTs?

It is important to hire a qualified instructor to teach others in Zentangle® concepts. Certified Zentangle Teachers (CZT) has been trained by the founders of Zentangle, Rick Roberts and Maria Thomas, who are based in Massachusetts. It is a beneficial learning experience to study with a CZT since it is tough to learn intricacies and subtleties while viewing a video or online class. The Zentangle website provides an online directory of over 3,000 CZTs (http://zentangle.events/).

Teaching a session on the basics entails providing a Zentangle kit for each student---which they use in class. The standard Zentangle kit includes five white 3 ½” tiles, black .05 Sakura Micron pigment ink pen, pencil, pencil sharpener, small tortillion, and a business card packaged in a fabric bag. (I sell my kit bags for $8.00 each and require each student to purchase one for class). CZTs use their own guidelines for pricing supplies. I encourage libraries’ support of CZTs being allowed to sell Zentangle supplies and books during programs, if possible. In a similar adage from librarianship, “no one goes into Zentangle to make money.”
